EXTRA EXTRA!

"There ain't enough bourbon in Kentucky" or Arizona, apparently! We have all been anxiously anticipating the opening of Dierks Bentley's country music bar, Whiskey Row, for a while now. Bentley has announced that the opening of the newest live country venue, right in the heart of Old Town Scottsdale, will kick off this Fourth of July. Be prepared, it is going to be wild! Complete with 40 different types of whiskey, Whiskey Row will be the latest hot spot for country lovers and the coolest venue for national and local country stars. Don't miss out on the grand opening party with performances by John Pardi and "A Boy Named Sioux" to set off the night. The opening is just around the corner. We will see you there!
