

Wall Stencils: An Inexpensive Decorating Trend

Written by Kai Neighbors

Stencils are not only one of the latest trends in home décor, they are an inexpensive solution to create an interesting focal point in any room!

A few months back I was on the hunt for a little home improvement project and I came across wall stenciling. From kids' bedrooms to bathrooms to even furniture, stencils can go in any room on pretty much any surface. Royal Design Studio and Cutting Edge Stencils have to be my two favorite websites for stencil inspiration. They both have a large variety of designs, tips and projects for you to get lost into for hours.

Here are some of my favorites:

This nursery found on Young House Love is nothing short of amazing. The black and white wall stencil is just what it needed to bring it full circle. Young House Love is hands-down one of the best websites for DIY projects, design ideas and home improvement projects.

The Moroccan Tile stencil from Cutting Edge Stencils adds just the right amount of design without making the wall look too busy.

This fish scale stencil is pretty awesome, but what's even more awesome is the color combo. There's something about light blue, tan and red that is just perfect.

You can see the chevron pattern everywhere these days, why not make a statement by putting it on a wall? I love this!

You may recognize this photo from my article Ikea Transformations for Stylish and Organized Kids' Rooms. Well, I just came across the stencil pattern on the Cutting Edge Stencils website and my heart skipped a beat. It perfectly completes this playroom!
