New York Times Custom Baseball Book - Hit it out of the park this Father's Day! From the first pitch to the final home run of the season, nothing delighted the baseball buff more than to root, root, root for his home team. Whether your man is a D-backs fan , a loyal Cubs supporter or diehard Yankee, this personalized book retraces the history of your recipient's favorite Major League Baseball team through beautifully reprinted coverage from The New York Times's archives. As they flip through historic pages, they'll go back to their team's glory days, relive the most newsworthy games, and get to know the all-star sluggers. This winning collection of full-size facsimiles is preserved in a handsome library binding and can be embossed with your recipient's name for a personal touch. Made in Williston, Vermont. And available for $ 72.00.

Good Suds - Your seasoned beer drinker knows to savor the first few sips of a proper pour, and once the beer's head is gone, the brew loses its distinct aroma. Using ultrasonic vibrations and two teaspoons of water, this innovative design revives the beer's head throughout the drinking experience, so you can enjoy freshly poured taste until you're ready for your next pint. Purchase for $39.99.

Cool Carrier - Like an insulating wetsuit for frosty bottles and cans, this neoprene tote is the perfect companion for a cold six-pack of your favorite beverage. Six interior compartments hold any bottle or can (up to 20 oz.), while a seventh in the center accommodates an ice pack to keep everything icy while you're on the go. Six holes in the top flaps fold over bottle tops to keep them secure, and an exterior side pocket holds a bottle opener or other small accessories. Just add thirsty friends and a laid-back, sunny day. $20.00 to purchase.
