1. Make a Statement: Gold has the impact of a “wow” factor in a room. With simply adding in one gold element, it changes a plain room to having personal style and a mature presence. Even with very little effort, these gold statement pieces will act memorable.

2. Marry Metallic: Don't fear matching gold with silver or other shades. Gold isn't the only metallic that should get a chance to shine. Especially in large spaces, combine gold with other shades such as silver, platinum, and rose gold. By nature, metallic tones are dynamic and add a sense of texture and dimension. It's a myth, just as it is with brown and black, to say that that they can't be mixed. Word to the wise: it's called dual tones.

3. Accessorize: One of the most simple ways to decorate without committing to painting or buying a large staple item is accessorizing. Search for gold accessories such as frames, mugs, candleholders, etc. Adorn the room with these pieces as if they were jewelry.

4. Print It Up: Simple. Chic. Sophisticated. The current craze, delicate gold foil prints, is a precious and personalized way to decorate.
