Kathy Shayna Shocket has an inside view of the stories that make headlines.

Check out the $11 Million Luxuries.

This is one of those properties that takes your breath away! Of course the views are magnificent. But the incredible architecture blending the mountain into the home, is what makes this estate unique.

There's not only a glass elevator, but a hillside rock cascading waterfall.

The 6,290 square foot home sits on 1.2 acres in Phoenix. Behind the private gates is resort style living with state of the art luxuries. As you can see it's luxury indoor/outdoor living designed for entertaining with a rooftop entertainment area.

In addition to the glass elevator and indoor suana, there's a home theatre with rock architecture.

There are five bedrooms and 6.5 bathrooms.

the home outside boasts a three sided infinity pool and spa, climbing wall, and terraced putting greens.

The attached guest house has a full kitchen with fire features. And the entire property has a smart home system.

Congratulations to the new owner. It should be quite a housewarming party!
