

The end the summer with a sizzle, Four Seasons Resort Scottsdale at Troon North has unveiled the Pillow Talk package for couples in need of some alone time.

With sweeping city light and mountain views and luxury accommodations, The Four Seasons Scottsdale at Troon North is one of the Valley's most romantic getaways. To end your summer with a romantic sizzle, the high-end hideaway has debuted a new Pillow Talk Package that provides some swoon-worthy amenities to couples.

Pillow Talk guests check in to a private casita in an adults-only building at Four Seasons, allowing for peace and quiet in a cozy and cushy atmosphere. As part of the Pillow Talk package, guests are gifted with upgraded bath amenities and a book of poetry—all beautiful arranged by the casita's sunk-in tub.

During their Four Seasons stay, guests have plenty of opportunities for amorous bonding, including a romantic dinner at Talavera, cozied up on a booth and taking in the stunning view. Or indulging in a couples massage in a poolside cabana, breathing in the fresh air, nose-tingling aromatherapy and, at the close of the treatment, refreshing frozen fruit.

In the morning, Four Seasons' Do Not Disturb breakfast is a delicious and desirable way to begin the day. On the menu: lobster, mascarpone and asparagus scrambled eggs on brioche; decadent French toast and berries; refreshing and fruity cocktails; as well as other tasty a.m. eats to choose from. (The Do Not Disturb can be delivered to the casita for breakfast in bed.)

To top off a romantic stay, Pillow Talk participants get even a little more time to enjoy the Four Seasons than other guests, as they have a 1 p.m. check-out time. So once that Do Not Disturb breakfast is cleared away, there is plenty of time to enjoy each other's company in one of the Valley's most romantic settings.
