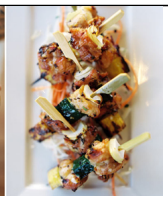
New Resort Opens In Kaua’i

Written by Kirstina Bolton
Monday, 31 October 2011 11:26 - Last Updated Wednesday, 09 November 2011 10:59

Kukui’ula rises up with the island’s newest resort in over 10 years. Be whisked away for the destination of your dreams.

Paradise may be an understatement for this resort community on the South Shores of Kaua’i. Where the lines between dream vacation and ease intersect, and the spirit of Aloha is not only a saying, but a way of life, you will find yourself nestled in a new place to call home. Welcome to Kukui’ula, the ultra-simplistic resort built from the ground up around families looking for the perfect island destination. The community is rooted in creating a kinship where older and younger generations come together.

Kukui’ula’s plantation clubhouse tends to the every need of its guests—whether it’s a sunset cocktail to go with the fresh caught macadamia nut crusted Mahi Mahi, or a planned picnic with pineapple, teriyaki cheeseburgers to go. Luxurious measures accomplished with simple sophistication prove that at Kukui’ula, quality has never been so comfortable.



Beyond the clubhouse, guests and members can find themselves among the locals, shopping for the freshest groceries at local markets and dining on the finest farm-to-table eateries on the island. For adventurers, follow Kukui’ula’s Island Pursuit members in standup paddling, lei making, hula dancing, and so much more.

Don’t want to leave the resort grounds? No problem. Lose yourself golfing on one of the newest, most elevated courses in the Pacific or relax in the clouds at Kukui’ula’s tranquil spa. You can even visit the resort’s very own 50-acre community farm, where farmers demonstrate valuable harvesting techniques in order to keep Kukui’ula country.

Kukui’ula resort and community offers Makai (Ocean) and Club cottages that will open for rent in 2012. Custom home sites are also available, so any family can rejuvenate in a place where plantation meets the Pacific and really make this place their second home. www.kukuiula.com