Liven up your doggie's day and take them with you to any of these Valley restaurants that invite your pup right in. Go ahead and take your precious pooch on a walk to one of these dog-friendly eateries in the Valley. Each of the restaurants has patio seating options which will make your doggie feel right at home. And when what they are serving up tastes this good, there will be no need for a doggie bag. Sorry, Fido.

Duck and Decanter

With three Valley locations, Duck and Decanter is a unique market providing any deli favorite imaginable. They also provide specialty food and wine as well as soups, salads and yummy sandwiches. Known as "The Duck," it has tons of shaded outside seating perfect for a canine pal. 602.274.5429, <https://secure.cnchost.com/duckanddecanter.com/>.

Press Coffee Food and Wine

Located in North Phoenix, this is much more than an average coffee shop. It has a menu of paninis, breakfast burritos, crisp salads and mouthwatering dessert which can be enjoyed on their patio. The only thing Press is more passionate about than food, is its dog, Yappa Bella, who inspired an event called yappy hour where your doggie can get in on the deliciousness with a three-course meal. 480.419.6221, <http://www.presscfw.com>.

Pier 54

This all-outside waterfront venue almost makes you forget you're in the Valley. Tucked away in Tempe, this eatery is open for lunch and dinner where they are serving up a huge menu of crave-worthy appetizers, burgers, pizza and their signature s'more dessert. 480.820.0660, www.pier54.com.

The Farm

By using local and seasonal ingredients, The Farm has created a menu of wraps, soup, and salads. They also have a bakery dishing out goods like coconut cupcakes, mini pies and pecan shortbread. La Grande Orange

Arcadia's La Grande Orange is about as dog-friendly as it comes. With an incredible breakfast menu served until 5 p.m., they offer unbelievable omelets, French pancakes, refreshing lemonade and decadent fresh cookies. Complete with an in-house coffee bar and mini grocery store, it will tempt your sweet tooth with its staggering display of amazing cakes. With picnic tables available outside, your dog no doubt will be begging for a trip here. 602.840.7777, www.lagrandeorangegrocery.com.
