Plaza Colonial, located on Campbell Avenue and Skyline Drive, will be celebrating the holiday season with an event to benefit children in need. The event will feature shopping, holiday music, and a silent auction to support Casa de los Niños.

The event begins Saturday, December 1, at 11 a.m. and is family friendly, featuring complimentary photos with Santa. The benefit will feature an array of holiday tastes, sounds, and shopping for your pleasure.

Along with photographs with Santa, music by the Sonoran Belles and Pusch Ridge Christian Academy Choir will be featured. The Pusch Ridge Christian Academy Choir will perform Christmas Carols in front of the Jane Hamilton Fine Art Gallery and in the courtyard of Plaza Colonial.

Many merchants will have holiday activities including crafts, ornament making, cookie decorating, and raffles. All crafts and activities are child-friendly. Toscano Art Academy of Tucson will host a Christmas Card Station for kids in front of the Jane Hamilton Fine Art Gallery, where children can create their very own Christmas cards.

Plaza Colonial merchants include Tavolino Ristorante, Primadonna Boutique, Sunset Interiors Design & Studio, Shlomo & Vitos NY Delicatessen and Pizza Kitchen, Elements, Greenspring Rejuvenation, George's Men's Clothing, Jane Hamilton Fine Art, Giorgio Armani, and more. All of these fine restaurants and shops are located under the Copper Dome, one of Tucson's finest pieces of commercial architecture. With a breathtaking view of the Catalina Mountains, close proximity to La Encantada, and great deals benefiting children in need during the holiday season, Plaza Colonial is the place to be December 1.
