

Aloft in Tucson

Written by Ashley Pearlstein

Monday, 08 July 2013 18:40 -

Starwood Hotels & Resorts Worldwide, Inc. has recently opened Aloft Tucson University, a stylish new hotel taking over the former Four Points by Sheraton property. The conversion project took a shabby hotel and revamped it into a chic space for next generation travelers.

Aloft Tucson University features 154 loft-like rooms in a social, young atmosphere. Aloft focuses on setting a buzzing social scene for young professionals and students close to the University of Arizona area.

Just three miles from downtown Tucson and 20 minutes from Tucson International Airport, the hotel is convenient and modern. Adjacent to the University of Arizona campus, guests will be able to experience all the entertainment that the university has to offer, all within walking distance. With shops, restaurants, bars, and the campus, there is always something to do near the hotel.

If staying near the hotel is important, guests can enjoy the unique hotel amenities including an outdoor pool, 24-hour fitness center, meeting space, and wxyz bar. Grab a drink and appetizer at the bar, enjoy a game of pool while listening to a DJ spin upbeat tunes, or reenergize with a snack from Re:fuel by Aloft, a 24/7 gourmet pantry with a variety of healthy snacks.

If stylish and social travel intrigues you, book a stay at Aloft Tucson University and experience convenience and luxury.

www.alofttucsonuniversity.com.