Sanctuary Camelback Mountain brings back the perfect way to savor an afternoon of hip and uniquely soulful music, matched with food & drink selections as spectacular as the surrounding vistas.*

Enjoy live music by favorite performers including Khani Cole on November 20 and Dennis Rowland on November 27, for a cover of only $5 per person.

The music begins at 3pm both Sundays, and you can relax on the grassy lawn overlooking Paradise Valley with a new gourmet picnic experience from 2-6pm. Food by Sanctuary's award-winning Chef Beau MacMillan enhances the afternoon, with specialties that reflect the mood of each performance.

For preferred lawn placement at the event, reserve a Gourmet Picnic Package for only $50. Your package includes a choice of appetizers created to suit the music, just the right bottle of wine, and even a blanket for the afternoon.

Call 480.607.2300 and provide credit card number when booking for up to four. For larger groups, ask about the VIP area with couches.

No matter what you've got coming up on Monday, you'll enjoy it more after a Sunday like this!

Music performed by local favorites, each with their own fans. Recently returned from a European tour, Khani Cole is known for her smooth jazz vocals that delighted Sanctuary guests and visitors during the latest "Fridays at Jade" events held during the summer. Her three albums show the harmonic and lyrical depth that earned her an invitation to perform at the Hollywood Bowl with the legendary George Benson.

Grammy winning vocalist and recording artist Dennis Rowland, who got his start performing with Count Basie in the 1970s, has earned rave reviews for his jazz and blues concerts around the U.S. and Europe -- including such venues as Carnegie Hall, Lincoln Center and even the White House. The New York Sun lauded him not only for a "beautiful voice and solid chops," but also for his "immediate" rapport with an audience.
