Who says the big game officially starts at kickoff and ends after the final score? For us, it starts and ends when the party does. From viewing parties, concert festivals, player meet-and-greets and even firework shows, this year's Super Bowl party lineup is guaranteed to impress everyone who visits the Valley for the game. Check out our top picks for public and private parties in the Valley.

Public:

Taste of the NFL's Party with a Purpose

As this year's Super Bowl host city, the Valley also has the pleasure of welcoming the 24th Annual Taste of the NFL's Party with a Purpose held on the eve of Super Bowl XLIX on Saturday, Jan. 31, 2015 at WestWorld in Scottsdale. This year's star-studded culinary celebration brings together exceptional cuisine, chefs from around the country, including Arizona Cardinals Celebrity Chef Beau MacMillan of Sanctuary on Camelback Mountain (check out his Q & A on P. TK)—along with NFL players, coaches, legends and more, all to support the fight against hunger. Taste of the NFL has appointed Andrew Zimmern, of Travel Channel's "Bizarre Foods with Andrew Zimmern," as this year's national culinary host for its Party with a Purpose, alongside Taste of the NFL national celebrity spokesperson, Alyssa Milano. Tickets are $700 each; $9,000 for VIP tables of 10. An exclusive Diamond Package Experience is also available. For more info, visit tasteofthenfl.com.
