This weekend, May 25 to May 27, marks the last weekend in May and the unofficial start of summer. To help you live it up to the fullest, this list contains enough laughter, wine, art and games to make it a weekend to remember.

Thursday:

Flavors of Phoenix

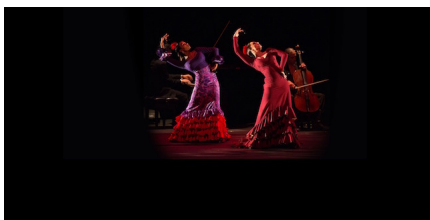

Flavors of Phoenix is celebrating its 27th anniversary this weekend and guests can expect all things extravagant. The event features the combined culinary talents of 30 of the Valley's best chefs, a cocktail reception and a silent auction. Proceeds from every ticket will go directly to help fund the research, education, and advocacy efforts of the American Liver Foundation. To purchase a ticket, click here.

Friday:

Phoenix Comic Fest at the Phoenix Convention Center

Start exercising your cheeks for the ultimate photo op with your favorite comic characters this weekend, May 24 to May 27. The Phoenix Comic Fest is the signature pop culture experience of the Southwest. Fans will have the opportunity to meet, greet and snap pics with their favorite comic characters. From family to adult events, this festival has something in store for everyone. For more information, click here.

Juan Siddi Arte Flamenco Society and Belen Maya at Tempe Center for the Arts

This Friday and Saturday, get ready to be transported to Spain as you feast your eyes on the incredible performance by the Juan Siddi Arte
