Now that I'm a mom of three boys, I'm embracing the funniest of farts, dressing up as Spider-"mom," and everything monster truck. And truth be told, I'm loving every minute of it.

Last year was my Nicholas' first time at a Monster Jam, an adrenaline-charged, entertaining event for boys who love boy toys. And this year, my 4-year old Nicholas can't wait to return, of course, with his massive head-phones in hand.

This Saturday, October 7th, monster truck fans unite at University of Phoenix Stadium for a fun-filled evening of all things boy. There will be driving camps, superheros and plenty of photo-ops for paparazzi parents like myself.

Celebrating 25 years of car-crushing, dirt-flying action, the popular 10,000 lb. Monster Jam metal beasts showcases the art of demolition, speed, power and unbelievable driving stunts. Highlighted by the return of legendary 11-time champion Max-D® driver Tom Meents (returning to Phoenix after 8-year hiatus), additional fan-favorite trucks appearing will be World Finals championship powerhouses Grave Digger® and Son-uva Digger® along with FS1 Cleatus®, Gas Monkey Garage®, Soldier Fortune, Team Hot Wheels®, Lucas Oil Crusader® and more.

In addition to the world-class racing and freestyle competition action, die-hard fans can stop by the stadium early to enjoy the Party in the Pits pre-show experience, which grants fans unparalleled access to their favorite trucks and drivers alongside opportunities for meet-and-greets, autographs and photos.

The pre-party starts at 2:30, and the actual event begins at 7pm.

Tickets start at just $15 each, and pit passes are $10. To avoid lines, skip the crowds and enjoy VIP early access; special fan ticket package starts at $125 (limited quantities available).

And as a gift from me to you, utilize code BLOG20 for 20% off non-VIP seats!

Enjoy.
