

Special Summer Offering for Teachers

Written by Melissa Larsen

Thursday, 13 June 2013 12:48 - Last Updated Thursday, 13 June 2013 13:02

School's out for summer--now it's time for teachers to do some exploring. During July, Arizona K-12 educators are invited to explore the Musical Instrument Museum in Phoenix for free. To participate, educators must show a school- or district-issued ID, a fingerprint clearance card or an affidavit of intent (for homeschool educators).

Additionally, MIM is hosting two Teachers' Preview Days (July 20 and 21). At those times, educators will not only have a chance to experience the museum, but will also get a sneak peak at an upcoming Artist In Residency program and preview the museum's newest school tour options. www.mim.org.