Congrats to the Valley's E.B. Lane and Terralever--which merged earlier this year to form marketing powerhouse, LaneTerralever--for each being named as one of Phoenix Business Journal's "Best Places to Work" 2013.

"This is an exciting time for us to join forces," says Chris Johnson, founder of Terralever and current president of LaneTerralever. "We are appreciative of this recognition which we know is a result of the people who have helped cultivate this dynamic work environment." Added Beau Lane, CEO of LaneTerralever: "Consistent recognition as a 'Best Place to Work' helps us continue to attract and retain the best talent locally and nationally. We take pride in providing our employees with an environment that fosters the best in creativity and smart thinking for our clients."

The annual poll is based on employee surveys that measure overall satisfaction, employee engagement, management communication and leadership roles.
