FOR THE ARTS

Spring 2021 Art Classes Open for Registration

In-person and online art classes available with Phoenix Center for the Arts *Registration Opens
December 7, 2020*

Celebrate the new year with in-person and online art classes from Phoenix Center for the Arts (PCA) beginning in January. Next year, PCA is introducing two 8-week sessions of art classes: Session 1 begins in January, and Session 2 begins in March. Students will be able to choose from in-person and online classes, with 4-week sessions and single-day workshops also available online. Registration for both sessions opens December 7, 2020, on the Phoenix Center for the Arts website at phoenixcenterforthearts.org.

Phoenix Center for the Arts offers opportunities for both beginning and advanced students to enjoy an art class with experienced Teaching Artists inside a PCA classroom, or from the comfort of their own living room. Adult and teen students can expect to see class favorites from every medium including metals and jewelry, glass, creative writing, music, and more!

“When we make art and share art, we feel more connected to each other,” shares Painting & Drawing Teaching Artist Koryn Woodward Wasson. Students will have access to talented local artists as their instructors to encourage their craft. PCA Teaching Artists include a contributing photographer to both state and national publications, artists that have exhibited in galleries all over the state, award-winning ceramicists. Many instructors possess decades of experience.

Early registration is recommended to ensure a place in the class of your choice. With reduced class sizes, in both in-person and online sessions, classes fill quickly!

Health & Safety

In order to provide a safe creative space for students, Phoenix Center for the Arts is continuing their health and safety protocols, originally implemented during the fall 2020 sessions. Protocols taken by PCA to create a safe and welcoming environment include, but are not limited to:

- Smaller class sizes to allow for 6-feet of social distance between students
- Limiting classrooms to hosting 2 classes per day
- 2-hour cleaning periods between each class
- Staggered class start times to reduce contact
- Mask requirements for staff, teaching artists, and students
- Outdoor check-in tables
- Multiple hand sanitizing stations throughout the facility

Additional information on PCA Health & Safety protocols can be found at: <https://phoenixcenterforthearts.org/health-safety/>
