

Phoenix Festival of the Arts Makes a Comeback This December

Written by AZFoothills.com

Thursday, 18 November 2021 13:46 - Last Updated Thursday, 18 November 2021 15:45

Phoenix Festival of the Arts is returning to Hance Park, December 11-12, 2021, after a year of disruptions by Covid and social distancing with an arts and culture celebration for the whole family. The event presented by Phoenix Center for the Arts will feature more than 150 art vendors and cultural organizations.

An Entertainment Pavilion will feature art demonstrations, circus performances, dance ensembles, spoken word poets, choral groups, and more. A full lineup of live music and performances will animate two stages. The lineup will be updated here.

The festival will feature interactive art activities for both adults and kids. The Phoenix Mural Project will be a hands-on community art project allowing community members to paint and create alongside professional local artists. The Phoenix Festival of the Arts Family Zone, presented by the Teen Artist Guild, provides fun, free activities for families all day long.

Admission is free and dog friendly. Visit phoenixfestivalofthearts.org or call (602) 254-3100 for more information.