With temperatures falling don't miss tonight's weekly Old Town Scottsdale ArtWalk, featuring a diverse selection of galleries, artist studios, public art, and museums. They also have a wonderful selection of local shops, excellent bars and restaurants that will make for a perfect evening out in Old Town Scottsdale.

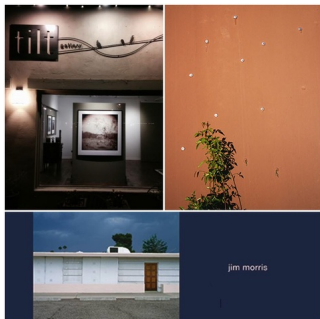

Always offering exceptional exhibitions and events each month, but here are the top 3 galleries to check out while your enjoying the Scottsdale ArtWalk tonight!

Gebert Contemporary Gallery is featuring Tucson based artist, Barbara Rogers with her new body of work. When asked about her most recent work Rogers states, "I try to investigate various systems of order and harmony in what at first appears to be nature's chaos and to evoke the sublime, to reaffirm the existence of beauty and the critical importance of cherishing the earth." The artist's dazzling paintings are on view through November 1st, 2015. Gebert Contemporary specializes in painting, sculpture, photography and video of an international group of artists. They are located at 7160 E. Main Street, Scottsdale. For more information visit <http://gebertartaz.com>.

Tilt Gallery showcasing the work of Jim Morris with this latest body of work, A thing or two I know about the Wild West. "The images are shot as transparencies, and replicated on traditional archival photo-chemical papers, matching the original images." When asked about the work the Morris states, "I photograph little zones that evoke a wistful sense in me, sometimes a gently haunting sense of déjà vu, looking at landscapes in slices, with compositions stacked almost as if they were excavations." The artist reception and book signing for "A Thing or two I Know about the Wild West" will take place this evening October 15th fro 7-9pm. Tilt Gallery is located at 7077 East Main Street, Scottsdale. For more information visit <http://www.tiltgallery.com>.

Also be sure to stop by Carstens Fine Art featuring the fine art gallery and studio located in the Downtown Scottsdale Arts District at 7077 Main Street #5. Showcasing the beautiful southwest landscape paintings of Cyndy Carstens, whose work utilizes a spectrum of brilliant colors, blending realism and abstraction resulting in meditative masterpieces. Be sure to check out more from Carstens Fine Art at <http://www.cyndycarstens.com>.
