This May the beautiful Tempe History Museum will host "25 Years of Pop Art" a retrospective of former longtime Tempe resident, Ralph Michael Brekan.

Brekan has had an impressive year career thus far exhibiting globally in thirteen cities, seven countries, and on three continents since 1992. Brekan attended McClintock High school, eventually going on to study fine art, motion picture and creative writing at Scottsdale Community College and he currently resides in California. Through the years he has continued to pursue both his art and film careers, where he has amassed quite a resume and received numerous awards.

"This exclusive engagement offers Tempe residents the unique opportunity to celebrate their hometown artist's success, and sample original artworks," states the Tempe History Museum. This exhibition will offer a wonderful selection of more than 50 multi-media work created over the course of his career highlighting his unique vision and style that is inspired by Warhol and peppered with pop culture references.

Brekan creates one-of-a-kind cut and paste collage-painting where he hand-crafts from color theatrical gels (deep-dyed, transparent polyester lighting filters) and coated in polymer resin, continuing in the tradition of what is known as "California Assemblage". Brekan uses unconventional media and techniques while utilizes bold colors and stark contrast continuing to push the boundaries of form and fashion.
