The upscale yet friendly atmosphere of MidTown's Kingfisher makes it a Tucson favorite year after year, but it's the food that keeps 'em coming back.

Specializing in seafood, Kingfisher offers guests the best of the best, including the renowned oyster menu, an extensive wine list and live music Mondays and Saturdays. Don't come solely for appetizers, because entrée choices range from the macadamia-crusted Hawaiian fish to the traditional baby-back pork ribs made with prickly pear barbecue sauce.

The central location, cozy booth seating and warm, inviting interior creates space for an eclectic bunch of diners. Frequent patrons include the after-work professional crowd, college students enjoying a relaxing meal after sports games and friendly groups simply out for a classy, flavor-filled evening. 2564 E.
