On October 26th, at a private event in Scottsdale, Wedding Linens made their mark for all things fashion glam. Only at this event the fashion came with a twist.

A gorgeous tent, bright flowers, a chic white runway, perfectly lined chairs, exquisite tables dressed to impress; it was a night the bridal industry had been buzzing about.

Before the guests arrived, before the models were dressed the runway was engulfed in a Frank Lloyd Wright inspired geometric design of coral, pink and yellowish-gold petals. Setting the perfect stage for an event full of colors and textures.

The music started and down the runway came beautiful models wearing the season's hottest wedding couture: Wildflower Linens.

Third time is a charm. Wildflower Linen's Scottsdale fashion show....so far. The first was held in Los Angeles and their second in Las Vegas. Leaving their most recent show in Scottsdale as their latest and greatest.

With each model that strutted down the runway, all eyes were on a spectacular one-of-a-kind linen designed by Wildflower Linens Founder Youngsong Martin. Martin, formerly a fashion designer and marketer of high-style women's apparel, launched Wildflower Linen in 2001 in Southern California.

Wildflower Linens opened their first Arizona show room at the beginning of 2010, now only a few months later the linen company is claiming their stake as one of the most fashion forward wedding linen companies in town.

The runway was not the only thing boasting the latest wedding fashion trends that evening. Gorgeous tables with over-the-top décor graced the inner sides of the tents, each with it's own theme and color scheme.

For a fashion forward bride, these tables serve as the perfect inspiration.
