On your wedding day, you are going to be very busy but your guests might not. It is crucial that couples provide entertainment for guests while they are off taking pictures or socializing.

Here are a few ideas that will keep your guests entertained.

Have a caricature station. It allows your guests to take away an enduring memory of your wedding day while still having fun.

Have midnight snacks. When your wedding is winding down, providing late-night food will keep your guests energized. Your snacks could include a taco bar, French fries or cookies.

Try a wine-tasting station. Instead of featuring a signature cocktail, display a few top choices and hire a sommelier to present the wine. Also, provide monogrammed wine bottle-holders for guests to take home as favors.

Setting up a casino can be a good way to entertain wedding guests. Have blackjack and poker tables and use chips engraved with your wedding date as wedding favors. Just make sure they leave with more than they started!

Have a trivia game where your guests try to answer questions about you and your groom, and the winner gets a prize.

A magician can perform tricks around the room for guests while they are waiting between events.

Consider a jazz band. Perfect for a summer wedding, an acoustic band can circulate around the room.

Any of these forms of entertainment is sure to break the ice and keep your guests entertained for hours.
