As the top international wedding destination for couples in the United States, Mexico must have some incredible things to offer, right?

When you think of a wedding in Mexico, chances are good a beach pops into your mind. As well as a lot of tequila.

While you certainly aren't wrong about those two things being part of the picture of a wedding in Mexico, that's just the thing -- they are only part of the picture; there is much more to a wedding in Mexico.

The different offerings and options available in Mexico that will make your wedding the dreamiest experience possible are more than you could imagine -- especially when you're looking to have your wedding at Krystal Grand Punta Cancun.

Cancun is the top tourist destination in Mexico, and it's no secret why.

What was once the hottest spring break spot for college students has transformed into a highly sophisticated, stunning location not just to vacation, but to celebrate the beginning of the rest of your life -- with a wedding.

Upscale is the name of the game here, but it isn't going to cost you nearly what upscale in the United States will.

This is especially true at Krystal Grand Punta Cancun. The view itself is enough to sell you on the place, but there's much more behind the scenes that will quickly make this place your dream wedding destination.

And your wallet won't suffer during the process of making your dreams come true.

One Wedding Per Day

Unlike many other destination wedding resorts which book multiple weddings a day, one of the greatest things about Krystal Grand Punta Cancun is that your special day isn't shared with anyone else.

The resort's wedding team will not be rushing through your wedding to get ready for the next one. They will not be missing out on key moments of your wedding to put out fires with a wedding later that day.

Rather, their attention will be focused 100 percent on you, and doing what it takes to make your big day a big deal.

Your wedding is the only wedding that will be happening at the resort that day.

Free Wedding Planning

As part of the wedding packages available at Krystal Grand Punta Cancun, you get a certified destination wedding specialist who will be your go-to expert for everything you need leading up to your wedding, and on the day itself.
