W SCOTTSDALE BRINGS 'VOODOO' FOR HALLOWEEN

Steve LeVine Entertainment transforms W Scottsdale into a dark magic scene, brings national entertainment line-up

Scottsdale, Ariz. – The W Scottsdale invites guests to experience an evening full of black magic, evil spirits and entrancing spells as it is transformed into a “VooDoo” scenery on October 29. Doors open at 9:00 p.m.

Guests will ascend the moss and cobweb covered grand staircase, passing by dimly lit decrepit signs warning them of the dangers that lay ahead as they enter into the dark world of “VooDoo”. Hanging skeletons and demon figures, assorted potions bottles and bone wind chimes will decorate the upstairs WET deck.

The highlight of the evening will focus on the pool where a chalk ritual circle with a voodoo pentagram will be displayed and lit by an eerie skull and moss covered chandelier. In addition, guests will be able to get their fortune read inside Focus as a real palm reader predicts their future fortunes.

Guests will have the opportunity to take complimentary photos with a giant real-life voodoo doll standing behind a painted ghoulish fence.

Entertainment for the evening will feature national recording artist Kelley James who will perform in the downstairs Living Room throughout the evening. James is coming off a 31-city summer tour with O.A.R. and has shared the stage with the likes of Mike Posner, Kate Voegelé, T-Pain, LMFAO, Slightly Stoopid, Joshua Radin, Shwayze, Sara Bareilles, and Tyrone Wells.
