Big news in the Arizona wine world today: Arizona Stronghold Vineyards has announced that Eric Glomski and now former partner and co-founder, Maynard James Keenan, mutually agreed on the dissolution of their partnership. Glomski, the founder and owner of Page Springs Cellars and co-founder and owner of Arizona Stronghold, has now obtained full operating control of the Arizona Stronghold Vineyards business.

Glomski returns as the general manager and director of winegrowing at Arizona Stronghold, overseeing the business as well as the growing and winemaking for the label. The label will return to making Custom Crush and Winemaking a focus again for other winemakers and brands in Arizona.

"I am excited to have the opportunity to rebuild Stronghold and guide it back toward its original, founding mission – which was to bring Arizona wines to as many people as possible," he says.
