With all our luscious, well-landscaped golf courses, it's no wonder Arizona is a premiere destination for golfers. From first timers to Tiger himself, countless numbers of people have graced the AZ courses.

Especially in these summer months, when playing a quick 9-hole is as commonplace as drinking water, it's a huge drag, literally and figuratively, to lug around the golf bags. What are worse are the exorbitant fees from the airlines to check the additional bag.

This summer, travellers to Tucson won't have that issue. Select Guest loyalty members to the Omni Tucson National Resort can present their airline receipt for the checked golf bag and the resort will reimburse the fee.

The deal, lasting until Aug. 31, is a special thanks from the resort and a little boost of encouragement to get visitors to the resort's renowned golf course.

To take advantage of the deal or find other Omni hotels with a similar offer, golfers will need to register to be a part of the Select Guest program online or at the front desk upon check-in.
