

From the Tarmac to the Tee

Written by Written by Nichole Brophy

Wednesday, 03 March 2010 10:14 - Last Updated Wednesday, 03 March 2010 10:25

---

If you are privy to using the stretch of Frank Lloyd Wright Blvd between Pima Freeway and Hayden Road in North Scottsdale, then you have no doubt seen some pretty swanky jets flying in overhead.

Scottsdale airport has long been the hub of choice for celebrities, CEO's and the independently wealthy that are looking to tee up in Scottsdale. If you aren't a local but want to experience the array of exceptional golf this Southwest region has to offer, there really is only one way to get here— by a private jet.

Several companies around the country charter jets into Scottsdale and cater to passengers strictly looking to see greens by spending a lot of it. Utilizing a local private travel company located within the Scottsdale Airpark is a great way to ensure on-time arrivals, luxury amenities and one seriously lavish ride to town.

Aero Jet Services is a worldwide jet charter and aircraft management service based in Scottsdale Airpark with locations New York, NY and Las Vegas. The bicoastal presence of the company means that they know the ins and outs of jet travel and have the science down to a tee. The Aero Jet Website is easily navigable, so interested parties can book and determine rates for travel without having to contact an agent. For a grasp of pricing, a one way flight from New York's JFK Airport to Scottsdale will run passengers anywhere from $12,000-$34,000 depending on aircraft preference.

In addition to chartering your own jet, Aero Jet as well as several other charter services typically have a sections on their Web sites that note empty legs, transient availability and which jets are available at the base for a given time frame. While this mode of travel is not for the faint of budget, these alternate methods might serve to lower travel costs (but not by much).

Another reputable company is Stratos Jets, a chartering service that utilizes various charter operators in the Phoenix/Scottsdale Area. The company offers an impressive selection of jets and planes for the discriminating flyer. Due to the their connections with several charter companies, Strato Jets makes it easy for golfers (and vacationers in general) to touch down in Scottsdale from anywhere around the nation.

The proximity of Scottsdale's private airport to the flurry of sensational tracks in the North Scottsdale region makes it easy to go from the tarmac to the tee in under five to ten minutes. For execs crunched for time, that luxury is priceless.

To Learn More

Aero Jet Service, www.aerojetservice.com.

Stratos Jet Charter Services, www.stratosjets.com.