Yua: Henri Matisse and the Inner Arctic Spirit

Though the artistic works of Henri Matisse have long been admired, they have never been seen quite like this. The Heard Museum, which is hosting the remarkable exhibit, will be the only venue to see these original works of art. The encompassing experience pairs original artwork by Matisse with Yup'ik masks, and analyzes how the masterful painter and the people of the Arctic found unexpected inspiration in one another. Admission tickets are $7. For more information on this event, click here.

Artlink's First Friday Art Walk

Art lovers rejoice! Artlink's First Friday Art Walk returns this Friday in Downtown Phoenix. Since its inception, First Fridays have grown into being one of the nation's largest, self-guided art walks. More than 70 galleries, venues and art-related spaces are participating in this month's event, in an effort to promote and celebrate the diversity of the thriving Phoenix art scene. The event is free. For more information on First Fridays, click here.

Roosevelt Row Pie Social

It's never too early to celebrate all that you're thankful for. And this weekend, we're thankful for pie and community. OK, mostly just the pie. At the Roosevelt Row Pie Social, which will take place at Hance Park from 2 to 5 p.m. this Sunday, attendees can enjoy pie-tasting, a community-inspired pie art installation and calming tunes from jazz music aficionados from the local venue, The Nash.
