

Tucson's Automation Specialists Wins Award

Written by Written by Erin van der Lee

The growing popularity of home entertainment systems, whole house music systems and security systems has introduced many new options for homeowners. But, it has also made it harder to figure out who and where to buy from. Look no further?Goldline Research has selected the leading Home Theater Designers in the U.S. for 2009, which was published in the October 19th issue of Forbes Magazine. Local Tucson company Automation Specialists, Inc., has topped their list.

Automation Specialists provides the design, sales, installation and service of home entertainment systems and security systems for the residential home market. "We deliver the very best products and home entertainment spaces to our clients throughout Arizona, and this recognition confirms our success" says David Knittle, president of Automation Specialists, Inc. "We estimate that there are approximately 20,000 home theater designers in the United States. Quality and client service varies greatly in the industry, and, as a result, many consumers end up making a poor selection when choosing their home theater designer. The firms that we selected, however, provide extensive client service that exceeds the industry standard," says Victoria Coryelle, analyst for Goldline Research. "We believe that these firms are setting the benchmarks for client service for the industry as a whole."

Automation Specialists has been a leader in the industry for over a decade and has provided Arizonans with the highest quality products including systems integration, structured wiring, home entertainment systems, home theater seating and whole home and audio video systems.

These guys and gals can deal with pretty much any system you're considering; on a very basic level, they can set up your security system, central vacuum, intercom, telephone and television. On a more advanced level, they are able to install structured wiring system, home automation, audio keypad control systems, home theater, satellite, lighting automation, fiber optic lighting, specialty low voltage lighting, home communication system and systems integration.

If you thought it couldn't get any better, Automation Specialists, Inc. is a full turn-key provider, which means working with a client from start to finish: designing a system, providing the audio/video/electronic equipment required for the project, installing the system, and finally, service/warranty of the systems. So, that means only one company to deal with and less stress for you.
